MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR

Dear Graduates and Families:

Welcome to Commencement 2010. I extend warm congratulations to our graduates and a welcome to the ranks of Tar Heel alumni. To all the family members and friends who supported you, I offer thanks on behalf of Carolina's faculty and staff.

Earning a university degree is for optimists only. Especially in uncertain economic times like ours, it takes a belief in the future and confidence in your own ability to make that future better — for you, your family, your community and the world.

I am confident in all of you. I know that you will go out into the world and make a difference, as countless other Tar Heels have done before you.

Carolina and Chapel Hill will be here for you. No matter where you go, you can count on our love and support. Now go out and change the world.

Hark the sound!

ALMA MATER

The words of "Hark the Sound," UNC–Chapel Hill's alma mater, were written in 1897 by William Starr Myers, a graduating senior. The Glee Club director asked Myers to put words to the tune "Amici," and the song was first performed on June 2, 1897, as part of the Glee Club's Commencement performance in Gerrard Hall.

Soon the song was almost forgotten. When a University quartet tried a few years later to remember the words, they could recollect only the first verse and the chorus of Myers' original version. Two members of the quartet, Charles S. Mangum and Charles T. Woollen, added two verses to the one they remembered. Mangum later became a professor in the School of Medicine, and Woollen worked as the University's business manager and comptroller.

HARK THE SOUND

Hark, the sound of Tar Heel voices
Ringing clear and true,
Singing Carolina's praises,
Shouting N.C.U.!

Hail to the brightest star of all!
Clear its radiance shine!
Carolina, priceless gem,
Receive all praises thine.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

The Doctoral Hooding ceremony on Saturday will be captioned. For the Commencement ceremony in Kenan Stadium on Sunday, there will be a sign language interpreter as well as captioning. A student marshal or Disability Services staff member can advise people with hearing impairments about seating from which to view the interpreter.

This Commencement program is printed prior to administering final examinations. Therefore, including degree candidates' names in this program does not represent certification that candidates have satisfactorily completed degree requirements.

Diplomas for bachelor's, master of science and master of arts degrees will be printed after Commencement and mailed to graduates. Graduates with professional, doctoral or master's degrees that contain an area of study in the degree, such as Master of Accounting, may receive their diplomas in a special departmental or school ceremony. Or, they may pick up a diploma from the Office of the Registrar in the Student and Academic Services Building from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Sunday. Diplomas will remain available in the Registrar's Office for two weeks following Commencement, after which time they will be mailed.

HOLDEN THORP
Chancellor

At Carolina, Holden Thorp has been an undergraduate student, a chemistry professor, a planetarium director, an inventor and an entrepreneur, as well as a dean. He graduated with honors, won teaching awards, led a powerhouse academic department, developed technology for electronic DNA chips, founded spinoff companies and succeeded as an administrator.

Now, as the 10th chancellor, Thorp is drawing from all of those experiences in leading Carolina among the ranks of the great research universities in the United States and around the world.

A North Carolina native, Thorp grew up in Fayetteville in a family steeped in Carolina traditions dating to the 1800s. His father, Herb, used to sing the alma mater, "Hark the Sound," at bedtime. When it was time to graduate from Terry Sanford High School, there was only one school on Thorp's college application list—UNC. He earned a bachelor of science degree with honors in 1986.

Attending a world-class research university—where research and teaching are done by the same people—gave Thorp opportunities to work in chemistry labs alongside some of Carolina's very best faculty. Those experiences inspired him to become a college professor. He pursued that dream at the California Institute of Technology, where he earned a doctorate in chemistry in 1989, and at Yale University for postgraduate work. After a year teaching at North Carolina State University, he came back to UNC's chemistry department in 1993.

Because he has lived it from both sides of the classroom, Thorp is passionate about the undergraduate experience. "Carolina is perfectly suited to leverage our students' interests in the great problems facing our world, to enhance their academic success and position them to lead us," he says. "Our greatest contributions are the UNC alumni who go on to be leaders in communities across North Carolina."

Thorp says the University's future depends on aspiring to global academic excellence and serving the needs of North Carolina's students and people. "We're the university of both—and: Both academic prominence and a commitment to our state."

Before becoming chancellor on July 1, 2008, Thorp served for a year as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He chaired the chemistry department, led a $17 million fundraising effort for the Carolina Physical Science Complex as faculty director, and spent four years as director of the Morehead Planetarium and Science Center.

Nationally, Thorp serves on the Associations Patent Reform Task Force, an advisory body to six associations representing U.S. higher education in a Congressional effort to reform patent law. He has published 130 scholarly articles on the electronic properties of DNA and RNA. He invented technology for electronic DNA chips that led to 19 issued or pending U.S. patents.

Although Thorp has lived mostly in North Carolina, he conducted a state tour during part of his first year as chancellor to show his personal commitment to the University's mission of serving the state. Stops included visits with high school students, university students, alumni and all UNC system chancellors.

An accomplished musician who plays jazz bass and keyboard, Thorp is married to Patti Worden Thorp, a Hope Mills native and UNC-Greensboro graduate. Their children are John and Emma.

THE DOCTORAL HOODING SPEAKER

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

John Grisham

JOHN GRISHAM, a native of Jonesboro, Arkansas, is the author of 23 books including numerous legal thrillers. After receiving a bachelor of science in accounting at Mississippi State University in 1977, Grisham went on to earn a juris doctor from the University of Mississippi's law school in 1981. He practiced law for nearly a decade in Southaven, Mississippi, specializing in criminal defense and personal injury litigation. In 1983, he was elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives and served until 1990.

Since publishing his first legal thriller, "A Time to Kill," in 1988, Grisham has written one novel a year, and all of them have become international bestsellers. Nine of his books have been turned into movies, along with an original screenplay. "The Innocent Man" (2006) marked his first foray into nonfiction, and "Ford County" (2010) was his first short story collection.

Grisham's ties to Carolina are substantial. He spoke at two North Carolina Literary Festivals held on the UNC campus, in 1998 and in 2009. His daughter, Shea, graduated from Carolina in 2008 with a degree in elementary education and teaches in Raleigh.

When he's not writing, Grisham devotes time to charitable causes, including most recently his Rebuild the Coast Fund, which raised $8.8 million for Gulf Coast relief in the wake of Hurricane Katrina. He also keeps up with his greatest passion — baseball — serving as a commissioner for his local Little League.

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

Paul Joseph Rizzo

DOCTOR OF LAWS

PAUL RIZZO is chair emeritus of Franklin Street Partners, a private investment management firm and trust company located in Chapel Hill. Coach Carl Snavely recruited Rizzo, a native of Clinton, New York, to Cornell on a football scholarship. When Snavely moved to Carolina in 1945, Rizzo followed.

After a tour of duty in the United States Army, Rizzo lettered in football in four seasons on the legendary Carolina team that included Charlie Justice and Art Weiner, and was inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece. He is remembered for scoring twice in the fourth quarter of the 1950 Cotton Bowl against Rice University, thereby preventing a shutout.

After graduating with a degree in accounting, Rizzo embarked on a business career that culminated in the position of vice chair of the board and chief financial officer of IBM. One day in 1987, after having reached IBM's mandatory retirement age of 60, Rizzo happened to be on a flight to Japan with Richard Jenrette, then a member of Carolina's Board of Trustees. Jenrette encouraged him to apply for the post of dean of the Kenan–Flagler Business School. Chancellor Christopher Fordham chose Rizzo for the job in a bold move that reached into the business community for an academic dean who had no previous experience in higher education leadership. Rizzo accepted the challenge with a goal of strengthening ties to North Carolina's business community and preparing Carolina's graduates for the increasing globalization of business.

Rizzo's administration initiated an era of phenomenal growth in Kenan–Flagler. He began with an executive education program that more than quadrupled in funding during his tenure. He energized the trustees and Kenan–Flagler's supporters by insisting that Carolina could and should compete with the best business schools in the nation. He pushed for a new building, advocated higher tuition for graduate students that would be retained by Kenan–Flagler to be used for building up its executive program, and de-emphasized the undergraduate program. At the end of his five-year term as dean, Rizzo had raised the Kenan–Flagler Business School to national stature.

His leadership roles at Carolina include membership on the Board of Visitors, the UNC Health Care System Board of Directors, the Educational Foundation Executive Committee and the UNC Board of Governors. Kenan–Flagler's Paul J. Rizzo Conference Center at Meadowmont is named in his honor. Rizzo's philanthropic work includes a leadership role in the Carolina First Campaign. He has been honored with the 1994 William Richardson Davie Award and the General Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Medal.

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

Eugene Leslie Roberts Jr.

DOCTOR OF LAWS

GENE ROBERTS is known by everyone in the news business as a hard-nosed journalist who in an era of great editors took second place to none. He came by his calling naturally and he pursued it with integrity and professional genius for more than half a century.

He began his lifelong love affair with journalism by helping with the Goldsboro Herald, a weekly paper published by his father. After graduating from Carolina with a B.A. in journalism (1954), Roberts worked for the Goldsboro News-Argus, where he wrote a farm column titled "Rambling in Rural Wayne." His readers enjoyed stories about things like who made the best watermelon rind pickles or a sweet potato that looked like Charles DeGaulle. After writing for the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, the Raleigh News & Observer, and the Detroit Free Press, Roberts joined the staff of the New York Times. There, he became one of the first people to report in depth on how the civil rights revolution was affecting the lives of ordinary people. Similarly, his coverage of the Battle of Huế in Vietnam told the story of ordinary soldiers in desperate straits.

Roberts became national editor of the Times in 1969, often a stepping-stone to the top job, but in 1972, he took a chance on the struggling Philadelphia Inquirer. Serving as executive editor of the Inquirer for 18 years, Roberts turned what had been a rag wrung dry by its much larger rival, the Philadelphia Bulletin, into a top 10 newspaper. During his tenure, the Inquirer won 17 Pulitzer Prizes, including two gold medals for public service. He won the circulation war with the Bulletin and propelled the Inquirer to the top by expanding news coverage, adding national reporters and opening foreign bureaus.

Upon leaving the Inquirer, Roberts accepted an appointment as professor of journalism at the University of Maryland's College of Journalism, teaching courses on writing complex stories, the press and the civil rights movement, and newsroom management. In 1994, Roberts returned to the New York Times to guide the paper's move to become a national newspaper in fact as well as name. He retired in 1997 to return to his faculty position at the University of Maryland.

In 1990, the staff of the Philadelphia Inquirer and Knight-Ridder endowed the Eugene L. Roberts Prize in Carolina's School of Journalism and Mass Communication. The annual award encourages aspiring journalists to write the kind of in-depth stories that exemplify Roberts' career. In the words of the award criteria, a prize-winning story idea is "one that is dedicated to the untold event that oozes instead of breaks; to the story that reveals, not repeats."

In 2006, Roberts and his co-author Hank Klibanoff won a Pulitzer Prize for "The Race Beat: The Press, the Civil Rights Struggle, and the Awakening of a Nation," hailed as a highly important study of how journalists covered the civil rights movement.

Roberts is married to Susan Jane McLamb, Carolina Class of 1956, whom he met while he was a student here. They have four daughters and two grandchildren, and spend as much time as they can at their summer home in Bath, North Carolina, where groceries are delivered by rowboat.

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

Fred Colson Robinson

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

FRED ROBINSON is the Douglas Tracy Smith Professor of English Emeritus at Yale University. He is the foremost North American scholar of the earliest recorded period of English language and literature.

Robinson earned his Ph.D. in English and comparative linguistics from Carolina in 1961, under the tutelage of Professor Norman Eliason. His colleagues at Carolina agree that he is the most distinguished living alumnus of our graduate program in English. Within two decades of completing his doctorate, Robinson had held faculty appointments at Stanford, Cornell and Yale, and had been elected a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences as well as a fellow of the Medieval Academy of America. Over the course of his career, Robinson has been a philologist in its original sense — a lover of words. His ability to bring to life old words from the past, in turn, underlies his criticism of literature in English in all periods. His reputation is based not just on his large output of scholarly books and articles, but more so on the quality and originality of the research they contain. Almost everything he has written has contributed new knowledge and perspectives to the field. His scholarship ranges from editions of Old English works, a major literary reappraisal of "Beowulf," philological notes and an introductory grammar for students of Old English.

All these endeavors have been informed by meticulous scholarship, judicious interpretative skills and a broad humanistic approach to Old English language and literature. His contributions to scholarship have been recognized by fellowships from the American Council of Learned Societies, the Guggenheim Foundation, the Haskins Medal of the Medieval Academy of America and the Sir Israel Gollancz Prize of the British Academy. Robinson's excellence as a teacher won for him Yale University's William Clyde DeVane Medal in undergraduate teaching and is further evidenced by the distinguished company of scholars who pursued graduate studies under his direction. Two of them—Peter Baker, now on the faculty of the University of Virginia, and the late Nicholas Howe, of the University of California at Berkeley — edited a book of essays in Robinson's honor in 1998. Its title, "Words and Work," aptly echoes a passage in "Beowulf" explaining that one must judge others both by their words and by their works. In the preface the editors wrote, "His achievements as a scholar emanate from his love of words as the resonant constituents of language and his love of works as the larger forms into which words cohere."

Robinson's service to the world of scholarship includes serving as president of the Medieval Academy of America, founding member of the advisory board of the International Society of Anglo-Saxonists, chief editor of the journal Anglistica and founding editorial board member of Anglo-Saxon England.

Robinson's wife, Helen Wild Robinson, is also a Carolina alumna, having received her M.A. degree here in 1957. They have a son, a daughter and three grandchildren.

HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

Patricia Timmons-Goodson

DOCTOR OF LAWS

PATRICIA TIMMONS-GOODSON is an Associate Justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court. A native of Florence, South Carolina, she is one of six children born to U.S. Army Airborne Ranger Edward Timmons and his wife, Beulah.

Timmons-Goodson received her B.A. and J.D. degrees from Carolina in 1976 and 1979, respectively. She began her legal career as a prosecutor in the office of the Cumberland County District Attorney. In 1984, at the age of only 29, she was appointed District Court Judge, a position she held for 13 years until she was elevated to the North Carolina Court of Appeals in 1997.

Timmons-Goodson retired from the Court of Appeals in 2005, thinking that she had completed her service to North Carolina, but within only a few months Governor Michael Easley asked her to accept appointment to the North Carolina Supreme Court. She is the first African American woman to serve as a judge in her home county of Cumberland, the first to be elected to any state appellate court and the first to serve on North Carolina's highest court. At Timmons-Goodson's induction ceremony, Chief Justice Sarah Parker pointed out that this was the first time that the court had two women among its seven justices.

As a Carolina undergraduate, Timmons-Goodson was inducted into the Order of the Valkyries and the Order of the Old Well in recognition of her outstanding leadership abilities. She is a member of the Central Selection Committee for the Morehead-Cain Scholarships and has served on the Board of Directors of the General Alumni Association. On University Day 2008, she administered the oath of office to Carolina's 10th Chancellor, Holden Thorp. Timmons-Goodson's many honors and awards include the 2007 William R. Davie Award, the General Alumni Association's Distinguished Young Alumna Award, the Order of the Long Leaf Pine, and honorary degrees from Johnson C. Smith University and St. Augustine's College.

She is married to Dr. Ernest Goodson, Class of 1976 and a 1979 graduate of Carolina's School of Dentistry. They are the parents of two sons, Ernest and Aaron.

COMMENCEMENT SYMBOLS AND TRADITIONS

THE CHANCELLOR'S MEDAL

The chancellor's medal, an emblem of the office of chancellor, is worn during the University's ceremonial occasions. The sterling silver disk, which is three inches in diameter and seven ounces Troy weight, was given to the University by John Sanders, professor emeritus and former director of the UNC Institute of Government, and his wife, Ann Beal Sanders. Modeled by sculptor Pete Hinton and bearing the University seal, it was first worn by Chancellor Paul Hardin during the 1994 University Day convocation.

THE BICENTENNIAL STAFF

The faculty marshal carries the bicentennial staff while leading the faculty processional on ceremonial occasions such as commencement and University Day. The staff, commissioned for the University's 1993 bicentennial celebration by John Sanders, professor emeritus and former director of the UNC Institute of Government, and his wife, Ann Beal Sanders, was modeled by sculptor Pete Hinton. It consists of a sterling silver three-inch-high replica of the Old Well mounted on a turned and tapered oak shaft. The shaft was made from timber salvaged from the 1822 section of Old West residence hall during its 1991–1993 renovation.

THE UNIVERSITY SEAL

The University seal typically appears on diplomas and graduation materials, grade transcripts and documents that indicate accomplishment in or on behalf of the University.

The first seal of the University of North Carolina, designed in 1790, showed the face of Apollo and his emblem, the rising sun, used to symbolize the dawn of higher education in the state. The words "SIGUL UNIVERSITAT CAROL SEPTENT" (Seal of the University of North Carolina) surrounded the drawing.

A modification in 1895 added lighted torches of learning beside Apollo's profile. Two years later another alteration replaced Apollo's head with a shield on which the words Lux (light) and Libertas (liberty), separated by a white band running from the upper right to the lower left of the shield, appeared.

In the 1940s, some observers mistakenly claimed the white stripe on the shield was a bend sinister, a heraldic code that was demeaning. In truth, the stripe was a bar sinister and merely denoted a second or later son. Still, the direction of the stripe was reversed, removing any question of stigma.

Today's seal is the same as the 1897 version, except the stripe runs from the upper left to the lower right.

DIPLOMAS

The University's first graduating class in 1798 included Hinton James, the first student to enroll. Seven men received the first documents that by today's standards can be called UNC–Chapel Hill diplomas. Having passed examinations in the sciences and the English language, Adam Alexander Springs earned a Bachelor of the Liberal Arts degree on July 10, 1798. His diploma, signed by the trustees of the University, is in the Southern Historical Collection in Wilson Library.

Modern-day Carolina diplomas are signed by the president of the UNC system, which consists of 17 constituent institutions; the chair of the UNC system's Board of Governors; the chair of the UNC–Chapel Hill Board of Trustees; the chancellor of UNC–Chapel Hill; and the dean of the UNC–Chapel Hill school or college that administers the student's degree.

UNIVERSITY COLORS

As symbols of unity among Carolina students, alumni and fans, the school colors of light blue and white were first used around 1800 to distinguish between members of the Dialectic and Philanthropic Literary Societies. Throughout the 19th century, students were required to be members of either the Di or the Phi. The Di's color was light blue, and the Phi's was white.

At University commencements, balls and other social events, the student officials, managers and marshals wore the color of their society, blue or white. Because the chief marshal or chief ball manager represented the whole student body, not just his society, he wore both colors.

When the University fielded its first intercollegiate athletic teams in 1888, the question of what colors to wear had already been answered. Light blue and white had come to symbolize membership in the University, not in a single society.

ACADEMIC DRESS

The following information, based in part on An Academic Costume Code and Ceremony Guide (published by the American Council on Education), may be helpful in identifying academic attire worn during UNC's commencement exercises.

DEGREE CANDIDATES' REGALIA. The University's Carolina blue bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has no hood. The black master's gown, also untrimmed, has a hood and an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist, that hangs nearly to the ground; the back part of its oblong shape is square cut and the arc in the front is cut away. The hooded doctoral gown features three bars across each sleeve. In 1999, the Faculty Council authorized a special doctoral gown for Carolina graduates. It is Carolina blue, with facings and crossbars of dark blue outlined in white piping. The facings bear the shield of the University supported by the torches of learning.

The hoods of master's and doctoral degree candidates vary in color according to the field of study (see list below).

This commencement weekend, some students will be wearing special cords. Gold cords will be worn by Honors graduates, and blue and white cords will be worn by Public Service Scholars.

FACULTY REGALIA. Faculty wear the regalia of the institution that conferred their highest degree. The doctoral gowns are usually faced with black velvet, although the color of the velvet may vary according to the field of study. Hoods, which differ in length according to the level of the degree held, are lined with official colors of the university or college that conferred the degree, usually with one color forming a chevron pattern over the other. Some colors you will see on faculty and administrators' robes are, for example, the crimson of Harvard, the maroon of Chicago, the orange and black of Princeton, the dark blue of Yale, and the light blue and white of North Carolina.

Like the hoods of master's and doctoral degree candidates, faculty hoods are edged and bound with velvet in the color appropriate to the field of study. The colors in the hoods and gowns of faculty and administrators represent the following fields in which degrees were taken:

APRICOT: Nursing
BROWN: Fine Arts
CITRON: Social Work
CRIMSON: Journalism
DARK BLUE: Philosophy
GOLDEN YELLOW: Science
GREEN: Medicine
LEMON YELLOW: Library Science
LIGHT BLUE: Education
LILAC: Dentistry
OLIVE GREEN: Pharmacy
ORANGE: Engineering
PEACOCK BLUE: Public Administration
PINK: Music
PURPLE: Law
SAGE GREEN: Physical Education
SALMON PINK: Public Health
SCARLET: Theology
YELLOW BROWN: Commerce, Business, Accountancy
WHITE: Arts, Letters, Humanities

CONFERRING OF THE HOOD, TURNING OF THE TASSEL

At a certain point in a commencement ceremony, a gesture or action symbolically indicates that the degree has been conferred. For doctoral degree candidates, that symbolic action is called the "hooding." During Saturday's hooding ceremony, doctoral degree candidates will be conferred with a hood by the provost and either their advisor or dissertation committee chair. For undergraduates, the gesture is the turning of the tassel. At the beginning of the main commencement ceremony on Sunday, undergraduate degree candidates will wear their tassels on the right side of the mortarboard (cap). Then, at the moment when their degrees are awarded, they will move them to the left side. Upon turning the tassel or being hooded, a student transitions from degree candidate to graduate.

MUSIC

Graduates, families and friends attending commencement weekend will have several opportunities to hear the University's beloved "Hark the Sound" and James Taylor's classic "Carolina in My Mind." These songs evoke the feelings of loyalty and friendship that students, alumni and true blue Tar Heels everywhere have for the University. But the orchestral marches that accompany the commencement processionals are equally memorable for their power and splendor. They are truly fitting musical celebrations of the talent and achievements of UNC–Chapel Hill's visiting dignitaries, faculty and graduates.

During Saturday's doctoral hooding ceremony and Sunday's main commencement ceremony, members of the academic processional will be welcomed by the fanfare brass, woodwinds and drums of Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov's "Procession of the Nobles" and Richard Strauss' "Königsmarsch." Rimsky-Korsakov wrote his majestic march to open the second act of the opera-ballet "Mlada," which premiered in Saint Petersburg, Russia, in 1892. Strauss premiered the flourishing "Königsmarsch" at a palace concert in Berlin in 1907.

The new graduates will exit the ceremonies while hearing familiar Carolina melodies in "Tar Heel Rhapsody," a composition written specifically for the University that features its school songs.

THE OLD WELL

At the heart of the campus stands the visual symbol of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. For many years the Old Well served as the sole water supply for Old East and Old West dormitories. In 1897, the well was given its present decorative form at the direction of President Edwin A. Alderman, who described his beautification project as largely derived from the Temple of Love in the Garden of Versailles. In 1954, the well was given added beauty with brick walks, plantings and benches. Students can bring good luck with a drink from the Old Well on the first day of classes.

THE BELL TOWER

The Morehead–Patterson Memorial Bell Tower was given to the University in 1931 by John Motley Morehead III and Rufus Lenoir Patterson. Its 14-bell carillon rings both manually and electronically to call students to class, provide twilight music and serenade the dispersing crowd after football games. Rising 172 feet, the tower is surrounded by a hedge and lawn designed by William C. Coker, botany professor and creator of the campus Arboretum.

DEGREES WITH DISTINCTION

To graduate with distinction or with highest distinction, undergraduate students must have completed at least 45 academic hours at UNC–Chapel Hill and have an overall grade point average of at least 3.5 or 3.8, respectively.

UNDERGRADUATE HONORS PROGRAM

The Honors Program offers exceptionally well-qualified first-year students, sophomores and juniors an opportunity to take part of their general education curriculum in special honors seminars and honors sections. Honors seminars are special topics courses, limited in enrollment to 15 students and taught by outstanding members of the University faculty. Honors sections of regular departmental course offerings are also limited in enrollment and are taught by permanent members of the University faculty. Honors seminars and sections emphasize critical reading, class discussion and expository writing.

Senior departmental honors programs are provided for students who have demonstrated a very high level of scholastic ability and achievement and who desire to pursue an intensive, individualized program of study in their major discipline. Honors studies ordinarily consist of one or more of the following: the preparation of an honors thesis or essay, an independent research or reading program, an artistic performance or exhibition, or the completion of advanced course work in the major not normally required of students in that major. It is on the basis of participation in senior honors that a student may be graduated from the University "with Honors" or "with Highest Honors."
